

Locations

Written by Administrator - Last Updated Monday, 08 August 2011 08:47

FARGO

SVEE HOMES/TRANSITIONAL LIVING

A transitional living program with residential services provided in four twin homes with up to five people living in each home. People living at the SVEE homes have the opportunity to develop their everyday living skills to be as independent as possible. People enjoy a variety of recreational activities including: attending sporting events, concerts, museums, etc. 24 hour support is provided.

ISLA (Individual Supported Living Arrangement)

These support services are provided for people living in a variety of places including their own homes and apartments to support them to live independent in the community. People supported in these programs request support in their lives which could include: money management, grocery shopping, cooking, or community support on a one-on-one basis.

SLA (Supported Living Arrangement)

Locations

Written by Administrator - Last Updated Monday, 08 August 2011 08:47

People supported in the SLA program receive very minimal support. People typically receive less than 8 hours of support a month.

FAMILY SUPPORT SERVICES

This program provides respite and support to families with children who have disabilities. This may include short term care (respite care) when the parents/primary care givers are absent, whether in the family home or in another location.

ACTIVITY CENTER

Activity Center is a facility that offers an inviting atmosphere for members to make new friends, join group activities, and interact on a one-to-one basis. Social activities allow members the opportunity to integrate into the community. Educational programs include activities such as: cooking, computer skills, and bike safety. Recreational activities include organized sports, ceramic classes, group activities, and community events.

Locations

Written by Administrator - Last Updated Monday, 08 August 2011 08:47

WAHPETON

CONGREGATE CARE, INTERMEDIATE CARE, AND TRANSITIONAL LIVING

A variety of residential settings are offered to maximize personal growth and community independence. Programs teach self-help skills, domestic skills, social interaction, and recreation/leisure activities. All programs are staffed with people dedicated to helping others realize their goals.